Summary

Enablement leader who built Sweed's training program from scratch. When I started, product knowledge lived only in Help Center articles; I turned it into the course library behind Sweed University, now past 20,000 course completions across 17 courses and 400+ dispensaries. Responsible for Support and CX enablement from the start, I extended onboarding to Sales, grew client enablement, and onboarded 34 employees in 2026, up from 8 in 2025, with new hires rating the program 4.8 out of 5.

I've seen Sweed from every side: I led its rollout across four states as a client-side training manager, supported customers in live chat, and now set the priorities, content, and programs that prepare our teams. Next, I'm building role-based learning paths and certification so every customer-facing role has a clear, measurable path to readiness.

Experience

Sweed — Enablement Manager

May 2025 – Present

Previously Implementation & Support Specialist, March 2025 – May 2025

Lead Sweed's enablement function. Responsible for Support and CX enablement from the start; extended onboarding to Sales and grew enablement for all Sweed clients.

Function strategy and ownership

- Grew enablement beyond its original Support and CX scope into a cross-functional program that also serves Sales and every Sweed client, with the courses built into each client's implementation process, setting priorities, content, and programs with full autonomy as the sole owner of training and onboarding.
- Wrote the business case and formal headcount proposal for a second enablement hire, tying the role to business value.

- Raised LMS platform limitations with leadership, then led an evaluation (including LearnUpon) and presented the recommendation to the CEO, identifying the cost risk of per-user pricing at our customer learner volume.
- Identified about $12,000 a year in tooling cost savings across ClickUp seats and Scribe.

Onboarding

- Onboarded 34 employees in 2026, more than 4x the 8 in 2025, including 27 in one review cycle through three role-specific cohorts.
- Introduced mentoring into onboarding: after training with me, each new hire pairs with a team member to shadow client calls and learn the role in practice. 15 of 16 surveyed new hires rated shadowing very useful, and 14 of 16 said the same of their mentor.
- Earned a 4.8/5 average onboarding rating across 16 survey responses, with 100% of new hires recommending the program and 4.9/5 for clarity of information.
- Facilitated onboarding for new Sales hires and served as their point of contact throughout onboarding; the two most recent Sales hires both closed their first deals within 17 days of completing onboarding, one in just 3 days.
- Onboarded and trained two Implementation hires who were later promoted to team lead.
- Created Slack channels to centralize onboarding communication during high-volume hiring periods and to give leadership visibility into new hire planning.

Role-specific training

- Built Sweed University's course library from scratch, turning Help Center articles, the only documented learning at the time, into courses with 20,000+ completions across 17 courses and 400+ dispensaries.
- Leading the shift from 18 feature-based courses to role-based courses, prioritizing the product areas that drive the most client questions; Product Catalog, Inventory, Store Managers, and Delivery are planned for January 2027.
- Launched Sweed for Budtenders, designed for the hardest audience to win over: frontline retail staff. Led all budtender training for enterprise client Curaleaf.
- Built a custom pharmacist course for enterprise client Trulieve in a pharmacist-only market, earning praise from Trulieve's leadership team; also built a kiosk mini-course.
- Own the Seed Talent LMS end to end: built 80 learning communities and co-facilitated 400+.

Turning product updates into practical materials

- Took on monthly release notes when they needed an owner, then transitioned them to a teammate; serve as release backup and keep training content updates in step with each release.
- Own all product maintenance announcements on behalf of the development team, keeping clients informed of planned maintenance and its impact.
- Started and lead the Help Center video initiative: 76 Help Center articles converted to video, with AI voiceover scripts I write.
- Created the sweedlearning YouTube channel, unlisted from public search and open to all clients, to host training videos in one place.
- Championed Userflow as a new in-app learning channel and built launchers that surface Help Center articles inside Sweed POS at the point of need.
- Set the standard for client-facing PDF quick reference guides and created budtender quick reference sheets and a delivery app guide, both well received by clients.

AI-powered enablement

- Partnered with Security on access requests and approvals to connect the team's enablement tools, including Userflow, AnnounceKit, and Guidde, to Claude.
- Mapping onboarding and courses to product areas so an AI-assisted release workflow consistently flags the training each release affects.
- Cut training video production from 1–3 days to 15–40 minutes per video using AI voiceover and AI design tools, which also speed up learning materials design.

Customer insight and training outcomes

- Report client training outcomes quarterly through the Retail Community Report: completion-rate analysis and priority outreach lists for low-adoption accounts.
- As a Support Specialist, resolved client issues in live chat and fed recurring gaps back into documentation and training.
